The Story of the Beard.

The common of shaving the beard was enforced by Alexander of Macedon, not far the sake of fashion, but for a practical end. He knew that the soldiers of India, when they encountered their foss, had the habit of grasping them by the beard, and so be ordered his soldiers to shave. Afterward shaving was practiced in the Macedonian army, and then among Grock citizens. The Romans intiated the Greeks in the practice, at they did in many other things, and spix district. In the middle ages, at the time of the Renaissiance, shaving was introduced and the habit twas retained, though classicism gave place to romanicism, and that in its turn was resulted that your medicine. To hay out or take up a stood in caim water is not an easy task, each duck having an anchor string of about ten feet, which has to be wrapped around the duck. In rough weather it is a most laborious undertaking. With all the appliances the results are not great. A box which makes an average score of forty ducks each gunning day would be lucky. In times past, when ducks were more plentiful and gunners less namer ones costs, or water partridge, used to fool around decoys without danger, as they were

POUND BY ACCIDENT.

Balthmore, Md., Jan. 30, 1887.

I have been a sufferer for six years with catarrh, ulcerated sore throat and rheumatism of the chest, from blood poison. About four weeks ago I was passing the Botanic Blood Balm store No. 8, North street, Baltimore. I went in and consulted your agent about my case. He gave me one of your B. B. B. "Book of Wonders," which I read. I called in a few days afterward and got a bottle of your Botanic Blood Balm—B. B. B. I am now on my third bottle and will say that I have felt a marked improvement since the third day after commands.
